Allotment Holder Questions

Question 1

Having had numerous allotment holders and members of the committee voice their concerns about further restrictions to access to Bolam Avenue allotments for vehicles I have been instructed to object to any further restrictions as they feel that they are being discriminated against the reasoning is that most of the other sites owned by b t .c have good road surfaces whereas bolam allotments have a dirt road and vehicle traffic is increasing to allow disabled and disadvantaged people to access the site.they know the lanes were raked and rolled recently,they now feel that a more substantial surface be put in place .

I must insist that the council have a duty to maintain these roadways as landlord of the site and always allow access for all.

Question 2

Having been contacted by numerous members and members of the committee about proposals to put further restrictions to access onto Bolam Avenue allotments I have been instructed to object to this as members feel that they are being discriminated against as other sites in blyth have vehicle access and bolam has a dirt track road can an alternative be found as this is now the 21st century and equal opportunity for all whether disabled, aged, or disadvantaged.

I must inform the council that it is their duty as owners of the land that they keep roadways in good order as they are liable for any persons injuring themselves.

Q 1 & 2 Answer

The Town Council have in past years agreed to contractors carrying out improvement works on the lanes within the Bolam site to a required specification. As the members of the association rightly point out the lanes currently are in a poor condition because of the high volume of vehicles entering onto the site. The Town Council as owners of the land are obligated to keep the roads in good order, if the roads were upgraded to the same levels that have been used on other sites the costs for this to be carried out would be more than £100,000.00. Based on that figure the cost to upgrade the lanes on this one site because of its size could even be as much as 5 times the present maintenance budget.

Question 3 – Gates onto Bolam Site

These are very big heavy gates, and my concerns are safety and the difficulties and the health impact it puts on the allotment holder with disabilities.

As the allotment holder needs to gain access via gates as they arrive in their car Needing to park in the allocated car park

Once again, I wish to point out the pathways and car park area is not disability friendly.

The paths need to be addressed as they are Unsatisfactory for people with disabilities High rents are paid by Allotment holders. we would like to see that the gates and pathways carpark maintained to a good standard and for decisions to be made about concerns for the locked main gate the impact this has on people with disabilities.

Q3 Answer Gates onto Bolam Site

Regarding the gates being heavy and difficult for those that have disabilities while entering the site. The double gates are hinged and only need to be pushed back and do not need to be lifted, once the tenant has parked his car, he only must push the gates back together and lock the padlock which is fixed in placed. This also applies to the pedestrian gate on the baths entrance to the Bolam site.
